Diamond Education

Diamond is the birthstone of April and the anniversary celebration gemstone for both 10 and 60 years of marriage. Diamonds are composed of a single element of carbon and therefore considered the purest of all gemstones. Diamonds were discovered in India in 500 B.C., the name "diamond" comes from the Greek word "Adamas" which means unconquerable - suggesting eternal or everlasting love. Since ancient Greece, diamonds and diamond jewelry have been the traditional symbol of love, and the ancients believed they were hardened dew drops, splinters from the stars or crystallized lightning.

The Engagement Ring

Because an engagement ring is both a financial and an emotional investment, it's important to know what makes up a quality ring design. Before visiting a jeweller to buy an engagement ring, learn about the four C's of diamond quality: cut, carat, clarity, and colour. Know basic setting and metal choices, as well as different diamond shapes. Understand the differences between treated, synthetic, and imitation diamonds. While this may seem like a lot of information, it will prepare you for a successful diamond and ring purchase.

The Essentials

One essential piece of information is your partners ring size, which can be learnt in different ways. A close friend may know her ring size - If you trust them to keep a secret. If she already wears a fashion ring on her left hand, choose one she wears frequently (it is most likely to be quite comfortable) and try it on your own fingers, usually your pinkie, for a good guess of her size. If at all possible, take the ring to a jeweller so they can properly measure it - this may not be feasible, however, it has worked very successfully for us with many of our customers in the past.
